The one change in the world that could do the most good towards improving society would be Faith. Faith can be interpreted into many different particular things in society from religion to belief in another person. Authentic faith is a transformative force that influences our lives in various ways. It influences our daily decisions, personal values, and actions that make a difference in the world, especially for those in need. It is also expressed professionally, particularly in paid employment, where we can express our faith and hope in the living God. Authentic faith is not just about personal matters, but also about societal order and community operations. It is also about shaping the world's structures and powers to create greater fairness, justice, and peace. Unity among Christians is essential in demonstrating the difference that faith makes. As Brennan Manning wrote, "The greatest cause of atheism is Christians who acknowledge Jesus with their lips, then walk out the door and deny him with their lifestyle." To bring about this change I partake as a group leader in my school's youth rallies and See You at the Pole. Even though I am making a small change in people's lives, maybe life will be a little better in the future. If I welcome faith and love with open hands to people in my small community, maybe others will do the same and it will be a chain that can not be broken.
